

FROM PANIC TO PRACTICAL: REMOTE LEARNING DONE RIGHT!

with Meg Ormiston

We are all on-board for better remote everything, so here is the professional learning series to move you from paralysis to awesome teaching and learning. Join Meg in the transformational journey taking you from panic to practical real tools, tips, and tricks to tackle remote learning with the least possible stress. The five asynchronous sessions (On-Demand) are self-paced and filled with opportunities for collaboration, communication, creativity, and critical thinking. Develop best practices to increase student engagement in a remote setting using a combination of digital tools and high leverage instructional strategies. Stop worrying about the things you cannot control and join the fun as we all navigate the new remote learning done right!

Session 1: Who Owns the Learning? Shifts From Compliance to Empowerment

Session 2: How Does Instruction Need to Change?

Session 3: Why Modify Assignments?

Session 4: How Do Students Receive Feedback and Assessments?

Session 5: How Can Technology Be Used to Solve Real-World Problems?

How will it work?

Meg will be supporting all participants through Twitter using the hashtag #NOWclassrooms. She will also offer office hours to help participants with any questions or to expand on any topics.

Start your sessions as early as August 10, 2020 and complete the work before October 3, 2020 to receive ten hours towards recertification.
